DOUBLE ARMY IN PACIFIC

Time Out During Okinawa Battle

After three days of continuous battle, two machine gunners of the Fifth Marine Regiment snatch a well-earned sleep in a slit trench on Okinawa. They are completely exhausted from the fierce fight against recurrent Jap attacks. Machine gun, canned rations and other equipment are all within arm's reach.

French Cease Fire, Hold Lines in Syria

B-29s Fire War Plants In Osaka

LONDON, June 1 (AP)—France refused today to comply with Prime Minister Churchill's request that French troops in Syria retire to their barracks to avoid the possibility of a clash with the British, but in a conciliatory move ordered her troops to "cease fire."

Yanks Cut Both Okinawa Flanks

By HAMILTON W. FARON

GUAM, June 1 (AP)—Organized Jap resistance on Okinawa appeared to be ended today. Tenth Army Yanks pursued crippled, disorganized remnants of the Rising Sun's once-powerful island garrison and closed a trap on Shuri town while radio Tokyo admitted Jap losses were "gradually increasing."

With Marines on the west and infantry on the east, the Americans cut through both flanks to isolate the Shuri keypoint of Japanese defenses and to drive spears on both flanks southward so swiftly the retreating Japs were unable to set up new defenses.

Sixth Division Marines completed the mop-up in Naha, smashing furiously from all directions into remaining pockets.

Japanese Domei news agency, meanwhile, admitted in a dispatch broadcast by Tokyo radio, "penetration" of Naha by Americans. It termed the situation a "critical development" which compelled Nipponese commanders to withdraw "part of their troops to positions in the rear in order to consolidate defense lines."

Elements of the Sixth Marine Division, Associated Press Correspondent Al Dopping reported from the front, were pursuing the "withdrawing" enemy south toward the mouth of the Kokuba river and the Naha-Yonabaru road south of Shuri. Those which did not "withdraw" were killed or captured.

Radio Tokyo admitted the Okinawa defenses had been split into multiple fronts, but today claimed the Japs still were engaged in a "sanguinary hand-to-hand fight" against the Americans with "our men inflicting tremendous bleeding on the enemy."

Three-quarters of the original Jap garrison on the important Ryukyu island have been killed or captured. It appeared certain the remaining 25,000 or fewer Japanese, their line crumbling, will be unable to make a prolonged stand.

Adm. Nimitz reported today that of the original Okinawa garrison of 85,000 troops, 61,519 have been killed and 1333 captured in the two-month campaign. The two-week Jap assault which checked the stiff Naha-huri-Yonabaru line cost the Japs 13,416 dead and 315 captured.

The Jap casualty figures, showing a sustained 1000 killed a day, compared with American dead and missing of 9602 as of May 24. The U. S. figures include those for the Navy, Marine Corps and Army. No record of Japanese Naval dead are known here.

Japs Still Fight In Burma Pocket

CALCUTTA, India, June 1 (AP)—Savage hand-to-hand fighting is taking place in the Kama area, 17 miles north of Prome and 170 miles northwest of Rangoon where the Japs still hold an escape bridgehead over the Irrawaddy for evacuation of forces toward Thailand, the southeast Asia command announced today.

British troops withstood almost continuous attacks and killed 200 Japs, the communique said.

Our Subs Sink 14 More

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—United States submarines have sunk 14 more enemy ships, including a destroyer and four other combat vessels in Pacific waters, the Navy announced today.

The other combatant craft were three small patrol vessels and a coastal minelayer. Noncombatant ships claimed in the latest toll were a large tanker, five medium merchant vessels, two medium freighters and a small merchant vessel.

Simultaneously, the Navy relaxed its security restrictions to tell the story of the submarine Salmon, which, forced by heavy depth charge attack to surface after helping sink a Jap tanker, fought it out with surface guns at point-blank range with the tanker's four escorts, forced two of them to flee, and itself escaped.

Japs Open New Drive in China

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING, June 1 (AP)—The Chinese high command announced today Jap troops were pushing southward along the east China sea coast in Chekiang Province in a possible attempt to establish a new anti-invasion line even as they gave ground in three other sectors.

Jap columns reached Pingyang Sunday in a 10-mile advance from Juian. Pingyang is 30 miles south of Wenchow and 150 miles northeast of recently-liberated Fouchow, where Chinese are striking up the coast through Fukien Province.

Inland, the Chinese announced gains in both Hunan and Kwangsi Provinces.

Japs Behead 11 Missionaries

NEW YORK, June 1 (AP)—The American Baptist Foreign Mission Society reported today 11 Baptist missionaries and a 9-year old boy were beheaded by the Japanese in 1943 on Panay island in the Philippines.

The executions occurred Dec. 19 or 20, but the society said it had not received permission from the War and State departments until now to make the information public.

Those put to death had fled to a mountain refuge which they named Hopewell, in order to carry on their "preaching, teaching and healing mission" after the Japanese

"French troops will remain in their positions," said a French communique issued in Paris after a cabinet meeting.

By ordering French troops to cease fire the French thus complied with half the request of Churchill, backed by President Truman, to take steps to end the bloodshed.

In further steps to resolve the dispute that threatened to plunge the Arab world into revolt, it was disclosed the United States had agreed to sit with other powers in the role of mediator.

It was authoritatively learned tonight that the French have replied to the American note on Syria with a message to Washington in which the De Gaulle government stood by its original position that France should deal with the Levant country without outside interference.

The British foreign office announced France had been invited to participate in a London conference with Britain and the United States to settle the issues involved in the Arab-supported demands of Syria and Lebanon for full independence and Allied insistence upon safeguards for their communications lines to the Pacific war areas.

Beirut dispatches said all was quiet in Syria and Lebanon after the French finally stopped their shelling and bombing of Damascus, Syrian capital, and that small-arms fire had ceased. At least 400 persons had been killed and 500 wounded.

The British commander in the Middle East, Gen. Sir Bernard C. Paget, flew to Beirut this morning in a bomber escorted by Spitfires. British destroyers swung at anchor in Beyruth harbor.

British troops, tanks and vehicles moved along the main roads toward Damascus yesterday following Churchill's orders to intervene.

Beirut dispatches said the French commander in Syria had agreed in a conference with the British commander to cease fire, and also to take orders from the British.

Syria itself will not be invited to the tripartite conference, the British spokesman disclosed, although it might be invited to join later talks.

He explained the issue was primarily one of relations among the big powers warring against Japan, and that Britain's concern was with tranquility in an area through which runs an Allied supply line for the war on Japan.

The spokesman said no date was set for the conference, but Britain wanted it as soon as possible. He said Eden probably would represent Britain and Ambassador John G. Winant the United States.

Japanese invasion, the society said. The names of the victims were listed as follows:

Dr. Frederick W. Meyer, physician, New Haven, Ct.; Mrs. Meyer, Rev. Francis H. Rose, Norwich, Ct., and Lowell, Mass.; Mrs. Rose, Miss Jennie C. Adams, nurse, of Page, Neb.

James H. Covell, teacher, Athens, Pa., and Le Roy, N. Y.; Mrs. Covell.

Miss Dorothy A. Dowell, evangelist, Denver, Col.

Miss Signe A. Erickson, teacher, Warren, Pa.

Rev. Erle F. Rounds, Eau Claire, Wis., and Richmond, Cal.;

FIRE-SCARRED OSAKA BLASTED—Tremendous fires are spreading throughout Osaka, second city of Japan, in the wake of a B-29 fire raid believed to have leveled the entire waterfront section and industrial areas. Eight square miles of the city had previously been wiped out.

Quinine Sub

NEW YORK, June 1 (AP)—The Tokyo radio said today a scientist at the Keio Medical College had discovered an effective substitute for quinine "obtained from a certain element contained in human hair."

"It is claimed one injection of this new remedy is sufficient to cure malaria," said the broadcast. "Unlike quinine, this remedy is administered by injection only."

Jap, Red Troops Mass on Border

NEW YORK, June 1 (AP)—Both Russia and Japan have recently been moving troops to the Manchurian-Soviet border, the Paris radio said today, quoting "Press Association reports."

"The Japanese do not hesitate in withdrawing troops from southern and western China in order to bring new divisions to the Soviet border," said the broadcast. "On the other hand, Moscow announces elements of the Red army are arriving near the Manchou border in order to take part in the Siberian summer maneuvers which are to start as early as June."

Stating that it appeared probable an Allied landing in Japan was imminent, the broadcast continued "the Nipponese will do their utmost to keep Russia neutral." If this effort fails, it said, "we must not exclude the possibility the Japanese will try to deal the first blow."

Mrs. Rounds; Erle Douglas Round, 9, son of Rev. and Mrs. Rounds.

The society said the missionaries had escaped the Japanese for two years but finally were betrayed by a captured Filipino guerrilla officer.

Mr. and Mrs. Covell had written at one point, in a letter eventually brought out by submarine:

"We live in a grass hut with a bamboo floor. The people around supply us with plenty to eat. . . The Japanese came very close one day in February, and we have moved out thrice to hide . . ."

GUAM, June 1 (AP)—

Great waves of Superforts lighted fires in the manufacturing center of Osaka today that sent smoke billowing 27,000 feet above Japan's most highly industrialized city, and simultaneously the 21st Bomber Command announced a similar raid Tuesday burned out 6.9 square miles of Yokohama.

"The principal portion of Yokohama is virtually destroyed," B-29 headquarters announced, as returning crews indicated they had left Osaka in the same condition.

Eighty-six square miles of urban industrial areas of Japanese cities are now known to have been destroyed or heavily damaged.

Semiofficial Japanese broadcasts admitted flames started throughout the manufacturing center of Osaka were only "gradually being brought under control."

Smoke over Osaka was so dense that many returning airmen reported they couldn't see the flames.

Only light fighter opposition was reported, including antiquated planes, probably because an escort of about 150 Mustangs from Iwo Jima swept in ahead of the first wave of B-29s. The few interceptors were so unaggressive that one American gunner described the raid—the second mass fire on attack on Osaka, as "a sort of a milk run."

Superforts flew through heavy cloud formations and sometimes snow to reach the city, and began unloading their flaming destruction by precision instruments through a light haze.

They concentrated on harbor facilities, warehouses and the important Sumitomo plant manufacturing duralumin sheet metal and aircraft propellers. Shipyards, two electrical equipment plants, power stations and Osaka's main railroad station, which is the heart of the city's communications system, also were under fire attack.

Tokyo broadcasts admitted fires raged throughout the northwestern section, where there is the greatest concentration of industries, including the Sumitomo plant, and broke out in near-by Amagasaki.

An Osaka army communique claimed 47 Superforts were shot down and 83 others damaged.

Some returning pilots reported heavy antiaircraft fire, but most of them described it as meager to moderate.

Double U. S. Pacific Army To K. O. Japs

By JOHN A. REICHMANN

WASHINGTON, June 1 (INS) — President Truman, in a "war review" message to Congress today revealed that the American Army will be maintained at 7,000,000 men to defeat Japan.

Way to Keep Help

SEATTLE, June 1 (AP)—On duty in a patrol car, Deputy Sheriff Elmo Hudgens raced home with siren screaming when advised by radio of an emergency there.

He found the high school girl who was staying with the children handcuffed to a chair. His wife and 5-year-old son who had staged the handcuffing couldn't find the key.

GI Sets Marriage Bureau as Spot For First Date

Since he hadn't seen his fiancée for three and one-half years, Sgt. Sigisimondo Cioffi, of Chelsea st., East Boston, figured the best place for their first date would be the marriage intentions bureau at City Hall.

Returned to this country after serving as a radar mechanic with the 44th Bombardment Group of the Eighth Air Force, he hopped into a phone booth at South Station and called his sweetheart, Gaetana Ferrara, at her East Boston home.

"I'm too tired to do anything but sleep," he told her, "So how about preting me at City Hall tomorrow."

The couple filed intentions with Registrar Charles H. Mackie, setting June 10 as their wedding date.

Another overseas veteran, Pvt. Samuel N. Velardi, of Fleet rd., Belmont, repatriated after seven months in a Nazi prison camp, also visited the bureau with his intended, Joanne Giacobbe, of Summer st., Dorchester.

Captured last fall at Aachen, he lost 37 pounds during imprisonment and was bitter at the treatment accorded prisoners by their Nazi captors. The couple will be married June 17.

Another couple filing intentions were Louis Laider, of Ferndale st., Dorchester, a salesman, and Sylvia Melnick, of Lanark rd., Brighton, a secretary, who plan to marry June 6.

He also disclosed that a force larger than the 3,500,000 men who won the victory in Europe will be thrown into the Pacific theater.

The Chief Executive's message covered a thorough review of the war to date. The document related some untold incidents in the final days of the European war, and disclosed plans on how the nation's war leaders expect to bring about the unconditional surrender of Japan.

Mr. Truman brought a note of cheer to anxious relatives, many of whose sons and husbands have been fighting abroad for three years. He asserted that "only a small fraction of the men now in Europe will have to go directly to the Far East without first stopping off at home."

Then he added: "It is our plan that every physically fit soldier in the United States who has not yet served overseas be assigned to foreign duty when he completes his training or if he is fulfilling an essential administrative or service job, as soon as he can be replaced by a returning veteran. This has been the Army's policy since the beginning of the war. It will be rigidly adhered to in the redeployment period."

WARNING TO JAPS

The President delivered a flat ultimatum to Japan to surrender unconditionally or to be destroyed.

"If the Japanese insist on continuing resistance beyond the point of reason, their country will suffer the same destruction as Germany," the President affirmed.

"Our blows will destroy their whole modern industrial plant and organization, which they have built up during the past century and which they are now devoting to a hopeless cause."

"We have no desire or intention to destroy or enslave the Japanese people. But only surrender can prevent the kind of ruin which they have seen come to Germany as a result of continued, useless resistance . . ."

"The job ahead for this nation is clear—that America's entire resources and manpower must be directed toward the

Held for Grand Jury in $14,513 Theft

Blonde, 2 Men Held For Jury in Break

After listening to conflicting stories told by Sonia Santley, 26, of Commonwealth ave., Back Bay, in municipal court today, Judge Elijah Adlow declined jurisdiction and ordered her and two men held for the grand jury in connection with the theft of $14,513 worth of clothing from Audree's, Inc., exclusive Newbury st. shop.

The tall blonde and William Vitiello of Newark, N. J., were held in $2000 each and Pvt. David Gordon of the West End in $1000 on charges of breaking and entering, larceny and receiving stolen goods.

Police testified two bed jackets and two dresses were found in the woman's apartment and identified by the store as stolen in the break April 8.

They said the woman, when arrested last week, made a statement to Special Officer Joseph Curran in which she declared Vitiello had given her the dresses and showed her lounging robes and lapel pins.

Curran said she repudiated this statement in the police lineup and said Pvt. Gordon sold her the clothes for $40.

Placed on the stand, she testified she purchased the clothes from Gordon.

"I didn't know they were stolen," she said. "I said I had got them from Bill because I was mad at him. It was Gordon I got them from. I paid him $40."

Judge Adlow decided to let the grand jury decide.

Bandits Miss $12,000 in Oil Firm Holdup

Seeking a $12,000 payroll which arrived only 15 minutes before, three masked bandits held up the office of the Glendale Coal & Oil Co. in Medford st., Charlestown, today but failed to find the cash.

Brandishing revolvers and wearing handkerchiefs over their faces, the trio entered the office and demanded to know where the payroll was kept.

Mrs. Marion Robinson of Greenwood st., Wakefield, seated at a desk just inside the door, told them the payroll had not yet been prepared for distribution and was not in the office.

Mrs. Marion Robinson

Brushing past her, the leader of the gang began ransacking desks and three open safes, while one man stood guard at the door. The third bandit went into an adjoining room and ordered employees there into the outer office.

Two girls, Mary Martin of Pearl st., Charlestown, and Agnes Murray of Haskell st., Beverly Falls, were shoved against the wall by one gunman who poked his revolver at them.

John S. Woodward of Mountfort st., Back Bay, sitting at a desk telephoning, was ordered to get the payroll by the leader who told the group:

"This is a stickup! Anybody who makes a false move will get sugged."

Ordered against the wall with the two girls and Woodward were Joseph Sheehan of Grayton st., West Roxbury, Raymond Chase of Peterboro st., Back Bay, Ralph Seabury and Frank Tallien, all employees.

Satisfied the payroll was not in the office, the trio backed out the doorway and sped away in a car left at the curb.

Police recovered the car, abandoned in Green st., Charlestown, across from the Boys' Club.

Mrs. Robinson said the bandits did not search her desk and permitted her to remain seated. She said there was $100 in petty cash in a drawer, with fuel oil coupons worth more than 55,000 gallons.

The leader was described as six feet, wearing glasses, blue overalls and a dark soft hat. The second man, about 35, was of medium build, and wore a polka dot handkerchief on his face, instead of white like his companions. The third man was about 30, 5 feet 6 inches, stockily built, and wore a brown sweater.

Coldest June 1 On Record Here; Frost Forecast

Nice March day we're having this June first, isn't it?"

The mercury really outdid itself and went down to the 41 mark in Boston at 5:30 a. m. to rack up the coldest day recorded in any June.

The elements in Maine followed the trend and sprinkled Caribou, Presque Isle and Houlton with snow flurries while the temperature hovered around 33 degrees.

Pittsfield had a reading of 33 and farmers throughout the state were warned that frosts were likely in many sections tonight. Lexington and Concord shivered with 37 degrees.

G. Harold Noyes, weather bureau meteorologist, looked over his maps and charts, said something about "cold air masses from northern Canada" and estimated there'd be no real relief before Sunday.

The mercury will "soar" to the upper 50's before sundown but tonight will be as cold, if not colder, than last night, Noyes predicted.

"Summer is still scheduled to arrive June 21," he added optimistically.

Red Policy Hit By LaFollette

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

Special to the Boston Evening American

WASHINGTON, June 1—Sen. Robert M. LaFollette, in a three-hour speech in the Senate, warned the American people that the whole purpose of the San Francisco conference may be destroyed by a weak Allied policy in the liberated areas of Europe.

He urged United Nations delegates not to be stampeded into accepting the judgment of the Big Three or Big Four.

In opening the Senate debate on the forthcoming San Francisco agreement and the peace treaties to follow, the Wisconsin Progressive—a member of the foreign relations committee—warned the Senate that already too many concessions have been made to Russia.

"We have been anxious to have Russia in the new world organization," the Senator said, "but there has been too much of a feeling that we had to pay a price to get her in."

"If what has happened in Poland and elsewhere in Europe squares with the agreement at Yalta," he declared in reply to a question by Sen. Fulbright, "I'll eat the agreement!"

"Too many concessions have been made to Russia," LaFollette went on.

"We cannot thus continue to shock the American people by these discoveries. We are heading into the same mistakes that were made at Versailles, and which exploded 20 years later in the present World War."

"The fundamental need is for a more democratic organization—one that will be responsive to the peoples of the world rather than to the power politics demands of a few dominating powers."

"In its present form the Dumbarton Oaks plan strikes me as a gilded facade for the old-style military alliance built exclusively on force or the threat of force," LaFollette declared.

"It is the type of alliance which great European powers have employed all through history without preventing war."

"Any enduring peace must ultimately depend on the decisions as to what finally happens in Poland, Italy, Greece, Burma, Malaya, the Philippines and with other areas liberated from the yoke of Axis tyranny."

"I have no doubt some of my words will be misinterpreted and distorted by the smear band."

"It has become virtually impossible to criticize the activities of at least one of our Allies—Soviet Russia—however constructively, without bringing down about one's head a storm of smearing vilification and misrepresentation by a tightly organized minority."

"The very tactics which Adolf Hitler embraced as his own in Mein Kampf—the big lie, the big smear and the wholesale impugning of motives and character—have been taken over by this Russia-can-do-wrong chorus."

"The result is that many Americans who have sound, constructive criticism to offer are being intimidated into remaining silent."

"I feel deeply that great and irreparable injury is being done to the cause of world peace and to American-Russian relations by this minority group which demands cringing acquiescence to everything the Kremlin does."

"I believe that any enduring co-operation with Soviet Russia, as with every other country, must be based upon genuine understanding and accord."

"When understandings have been openly arrived at they should be formulated in open covenants so that the peoples of the countries involved may know what commitments have been made."

"The past should teach us that secret treaties breed evil and bring war among nations."

All Lend-Lease Meat Banned For 3 Months

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—The United States may suspend shipment of meats to lend-lease countries during the July-September quarter because of extremely short supplies.

Authoritative sources at the War Food Administration said tentative allocations for the third quarter made no provision for lend-lease supplies. Great Britain and Russia have been principal recipients of lend-lease meats. Lend-lease recipients were allocated 325,000,000 pounds for the current quarter.

Upward of 50,000,000 pounds may be allocated, however, to the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration for foreign relief use.

The amount tentatively allocated American civilians for the quarter is about 3,000,000,000 pounds, dressed weight, compared with about 3,788,000,000 for the current quarter.

The July-September period is the season of lowest marketing and slaughtering of livestock.

Syrian Peace Hope Cheers Conference

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1 (AP)—Prospects for settlement of the Franco-Syrian dispute combined with reports of improved American-Soviet relations today to brighten delegates' hopes for an early, successful windup of the United Nations Conference.

Forceful leadership by the big sponsoring powers is regarded among United States delegates as whipping the charter for a new league into final shape.

Many delegates say privately that the time for action to that end is at hand and the place to begin is among the Big Five. The United States sought agreement with British, Russian, Chinese and French spokesmen in half a dozen pending questions, and an early meeting of Sec. Stettinius with the other four delegation chiefs is expected.

Moscow reaction to a proposed Big Five statement on the veto voting issue is due in a day or so. The statement is intended to reassure small nations that the big-power veto could not be used to prevent their getting at least a preliminary hearing before the prospect World Security Council.

News that peace was being restored in Damascus, coupled with Anglo-American insistence on a free settlement of Franco-Syrian differences, rather than one made at gun-point, cheered small nation delegates.

Facing a test of the Big Five to win a greater degree of unity on remaining conference problems, the Americans therefore are seeking agreement on plans for:

- 1—Future amendment of the charter and a decision on whether any one of the five powers should be able to veto an alteration.
- 2—Election of judges of a new international court.
- 3—Measures against erring league members and decision whether they should be subject to expulsion.
- 4—Election of a secretary-general as the league's chief executive officer.
- 5—Treaties by which military forces will be made available on the call of the Security Council.
- 6—Statement on equal access of all member nations to trade and raw materials and also on promotion of "full employment."

Big Five agreement on these questions is considered essential.

New Thuringia Ruler to Wipe Out All Nazism

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

WEIMAR, Germany, June 1 (AP)—Dr. Hermann L. Brill, pale survivor of Buchenwald, now acting premier of Thuringia, declared today its "administrative apparatus must be cleansed of all taint of Nazism."

Brill, former Social Democratic Reichstag deputy, said he wanted "education reorganized from the bottom up" in outlining a sweeping anti-Nazi program approved by the Allied military government for Weimar and expected to be sanctioned for the entire state. It calls for using all old guard Nazis not otherwise sentenced for crimes "to do forced labor for one year reconstructing destroyed foreign or German areas," Brill said.

"As a first measure I am having all so-called 'alte kae'mpfer' (followers of Hitler before he assumed power) arrested," he said. "In many, maybe in most, cases, criminal acts can, I believe, be proven."

He said their properties would be confiscated and their families, "given bread and potato ration cards only," would be evicted from "large centers of population where they can do mischief" to other parts of the state, where they will be kept under police surveillance.

Brill said his program favored establishing free labor unions, spreading information by press, radio and every other educational means possible to the German people about Nazi crimes, and establishment of trade relations with the Soviet Union as "the natural economic partner of Germany on the European continent."

Big 3 Meet Gets Closer

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—President Truman said today a meeting of the "Big Three" was getting closer.

The President told his weekly news conference a delay in the conclusion of the United Nations conference at San Francisco would not affect plans for a meeting with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin.

The President also said he was giving full support to the British in their intervention in the French-Levant situation.

He said he thought the Big Three conference would take place in the not far distant future, and there was a possibility it might take place in this country but this was by no means a probability.

OPA to Check Canning Needs

The suspension period during which canning sugar certificates will be invalid will last from two to three weeks, Eldon C. Shoup, regional OPA administrator, said today.

In the meantime, he added, a system of screening applications will be devised by rationing boards so that only those who actually need sugar for canning can obtain it.

The suspension of the canning sugar stamps was ordered by Chester Bowles, federal OPA administrator, as part of a four-point plan to curb "some chiselers" who are looting to falsifying their applications in an effort to get sugar they know they won't use for canning.

Reds Liquidating Top Berliners

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—Sen. Brewster (R.) of Maine said today high London and Paris authorities had heard reports the Russians are "liquidating" professional people in Berlin and other occupied German areas they control.

Brewster stated these reports had come to him on his trip with the Senate's Mead committee investigating the status of U. S. war materiel in Europe. He returned today with Sen. Ball (R) of Minnesota, and made his statements concerning the Russians in an interview.

He asserted the "liquidation" reports mentioned lawyers, businessmen and "other professionals."

Brewster said the Mead committee was denied access to the areas under Soviet control.

"The Russians should realize that these reports—which we heard from competent authorities—will continue as long as they refuse access to the American press," he asserted.

Brewster said the story the committee members heard was that the Russians are "fraternizing" with the ordinary German but "liquidating" the top crust.

N. H. Woman, 102, Dies in Hampton

HAMPTON, N. H., June 1 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Augusta Walton, 102, died early today.

Surviving Mrs. Walton, who would have been 103 in August, are a daughter, Miss Irene J. Tressen, with whom she made her home, and four grandchildren.

Shortly after 2 p. m., company and union officials were summoned to a joint conference to consider the proposals submitted earlier at the separate meetings. The session was held in State Labor Comr. James T. Moriarty's office with Brig. Gen. Charles H. Cole of the state board of conciliation and arbitration present.

The Governor left the State House to keep a luncheon appointment with Fred Allen, radio comedian, but instructed his aides to call him immediately if his services were needed.

Details of the compromise proposals were guarded and neither the Governor nor conferees would issue a statement until the joint meeting was concluded.

Representing the Eastern Massachusetts were Chairman Arthur T. Wadleigh, John T. Donovan and William E. Crowther of the public trustees' board, Treas. Edward D. Crowley, Gen. Albert J. Boardman, Vice-Pres. Fred A. Cummings, Andrew A. Biggio, director, and P. G. Carleton, general counsel.

Union leaders in attendance were John F. O'Brien, international vice-president, Amalgamated Ass'n of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Operators; Joseph M. Shea of Lowell, secretary of the joint board; Martin E. Gallagher of Lynn, joint board chairman, John J. Costello of Brockton; Walter P. Hayes of Norwood; Martin L. Earley of Lawrence, Ollis Rogers of Haverhill, Ernest R. Withrow of Quincy, Jesse A. Levin of Melrose, Frank Kelley of Taunton, and Bernard Gilmetti, representing mechanical workers.

The War Labor Board, unsuccessful in efforts to avert the out affecting transportation in 71 cities and towns, withdrew after rbaning any negotiations in the event of a strike and ordering the present contract to be maintained pending arbitration.

Army and Navy labor authorities sought to have transportation provided for more than 500,000 war workers living in the area which would be affected.

EVERETT BOY MISSING—Herbert Maisinelli, 11, is the object of police search today. Herbert has been missing since Tuesday when he failed to return home from Nichols school. According to a chum, the missing boy said he was going to Franklin Park.

WIN NEW HONORS—A "Gl Oscar" poll, conducted by the Army pictorial service around the world, has named Rita Hayworth (left), and Jennifer Jones as top-ranking screen stars, according to "Yank," the Army weekly. Male favorites of the fighting GIs are Bing Crosby and Eddie Bracken. Miss Hayworth was also named their favorite glamor girl.

Chub Peabody Hero In Sub War on Japs

Endicott "Chub" Peabody, who tore opposing lines apart for Harvard in 1941 to become the unanimous choice for All-America guard honors, has been wreaking more deadly havoc against the Japs in the Pacific for two years.

After three years of silence about its submarine warfare, which Adm. King has declared "determined the course of war in the Pacific," the Navy for the first time today disclosed some of the feats of its secret heroes.

Peabody, now a lieutenant, is aboard the submarine whose prowess against the Japs was made known today by the Navy. Officials described its journey as one of the outstanding patrols of the war.

Peabody led a prisoner-taking action when the submarine surfaced one morning in the midst of a fleet of Jap fishing schooners.

Armed to the teeth and accompanied by G. M. H. W. Spence of Manchester, Ct., Peabody leaped aboard and, after an undignified start when he landed in a pile of fish and skidded across the deck, captured three fishermen and took them aboard the sub.

During its patrol the sub blew numerous Jap supply and cargo ships out of the water and on one occasion was so close to the enemy shoreline that she was submerged to 150 feet to get under Japanese nets.

Another sub officer, Lt. Com. Edward L. Beach of Palo Alto, Cal., earned the distinction of sinking a downed Jap plane with rifle fire after the sub had taken aboard two of her crew of three.

Others in the crew of the sub included Lester F. Fickel, Symphony rd., Back Bay; William J. Shea, Lonsdale st., Dorchester; Abston L. Hoover, Putnam ave., Cambridge; Daniel J. Brienza, Eastern ave., Lynn; Robert A. Lecount, Quincy; John P. Suprenant, Fall River; Fotos C. Lazzou, Haverhill; Clarence A. May, Newburyport; Page F. Aspinwall, Portsmouth, N. H.; Clarence H. Williams, Smithtown, N. H.; David R. Pettigrew, Kittery, Me., and Melvin R. Snyder, Dover, Foxcroft.

FLIER ENSIGN KILLED—WESTERLY, R. I., June 1 (INS)—Ensign George R. Miller, USNR, 24, of Darien, Ct., was killed today when his Navy plane plunged into Charlestown pond. His body was recovered. His wife, Bertha, survives.

Sister Kenny to Remain In U. S., Continue Polio Fight

MINNEAPOLIS, June 1 (INS)—Sister Elizabeth Kenny, Australian nurse famed for her treatment of infantile paralysis, said today in a letter to the board of directors of the Kenny Institute she had reconsidered her decision to leave the United States and would remain.

"If you so desire, I will retain my association with the Elizabeth Kenny Institute and continue to maintain my headquarters in Minneapolis," she wrote.

She previously had declared her intention of quitting her work in the United States, charging certain medical groups were antagonistic to her methods and refused cooperation.

She said she had reached her decision to stay after noting the expressed appreciation of the people of America through their "urgent appeal that I remain with them."

Sister Kenny also revealed she soon will leave for London and an audience with King George VI.

Quiz Girls 10-14 In Baby Killing

PHILADELPHIA, June 1 (INS)—Police were prepared to question every 10-to-14-year-old girl in a West Philadelphia neighborhood in an effort to find the kidnapers of 3-months-old Thomas

Valentine Ripley, Jr., who was found dead in a clump of bushes. The infant, son of Mrs. Barbara Ripley, was taken from his coach in the rear of an apartment house. Eight hours later the body, wrapped only in a blanket, was found hidden under leaves and twigs behind a vacant house. Hospital physicians said death apparently was caused by exposure. Neighborhood residents told police they had seen two girls, about 12 years old, "playing dolls" with a baby resembling the Ripley child.

House Cuts War Agencies Funds

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—The House appropriation committee today cut sharply into the 1946 fiscal year funds for a group of war-born agencies in a bill it described as "the beginning of the end" of such agencies.

With one exception—for state marine schools—the committee trimmed budget estimates for every agency which already had been reduced by President Truman.

Many of the domestic controls adopted during the war, the committee said, are "foreign to the American way of life" and "should be eased as rapidly as progress of the war will permit and abolished as soon as the national security no longer requires them."

Nimitz Dedicates 5th Big B-29 Base

GUAM, June 1 (AP)—To bring "this unsought, destructive war to a swifter and surer conclusion" Adm. Chester W. Nimitz today dedicated a giant new field for the use of B-29 Superfortresses.

Nimitz paid high tribute to the construction forces of the Army and Navy, who in two months cut the great airport, the fifth B-29 base in the Marianas, from dense jungle.

Stuck-Up Folks

NEW YORK, June 1 (AP)—Ave. B and Fourth st., East Side, became the most stuck up neighborhood in town today. A large barrel of manure fell off a truck, burst, mired automobiles, tripped an ice wagon horse and pestered sticky pedestrians.

Truman Ex-Cook Coy About Return

12—Boston American, June 7

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., June 1 (AP)—The Trumans may have to find a new cook for the summer White House here.

Vietta Carr, a Negro, cooked for the President's family for 16 years and says she has been asked by a relative of the Trumans to quit her soda fountain job in a chain drug store and resume working for them.

"I don't know—they're a nice family to work for but I'm sort of on the outs with cooking right now," Vietta said. "I'm going to make up my mind after I talk with Mrs. Truman."

She said she could still make the angel food cakes President Truman likes.

Mrs. Truman is expected to arrive this week-end to supervise spring house cleaning.

American's Peggy Doyle Rated Best Hub Play Critic

Peggy Doyle, Boston American dramatic critic, was ranked by The Billboard, outstanding amusement weekly, as the best of her field in Boston in a survey of accuracy in reviewing the dramas of the past season.

Personable Peggy, who with other Boston drama critics, looked at the largest number of dramatic offerings in any city before they hit Broadway, hit 26 of 34 shows on the nose in her analysis of their prospects.

She guessed wrong on eight others to give her an outstanding accuracy percentage of 76.41. This was almost five percentage points better than the next best reviewer who scored an accuracy of 71.43. From there the figures dropped sharply to 61.23. The three remaining critics were clustered behind that figure with percentages of 58.82, 58.06 and 55.

In the Billboard's analysis, the critic was expected to evaluate a play one way or the other and this put "no opinion" in the wrong guess category. Peggy, however, gave her opinion on each and every show she watched and guessed wrong only on eight.

single end of crushing Japan. "They should realize that this nation, now at the peak of its military strength, will not weaken in its power. We have the men, the materiel, the skill, the leadership, the fortitude to achieve total victory."

"We have the Allies who will help us achieve it. We are resolved in our determination that we will see the fight through to a complete and victorious end."

PROMISE TO NAZIS
The President told Congress he was making his war policy because he thought, with war ended in Europe, it is appropriate time to inform the world of the "problems, difficulties and dangers which confront us in finishing this war—and how we expect to meet them."

At the outset, he paid tribute to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"Under his guidance, the great nation grew to be the most powerful military force in the world," he said.

President Truman said there "can be no peace in the world until the military power of Japan is destroyed—and the same complexion as the power of European dictators."

He said that task was with problems that need in history his confrontation of any group of the process of reeducation of fighting men in Japan in a mass movement and supplies and troops to 14,000 miles from the Far East.

The Chief Executive said the strategy of the war in Europe was to use all the men possible on land and sea to crush Germany's military machine in the shortest possible time.

"That is exactly what we plan to do to Japan," he emphasized. "The President disclosed that 3,000,000 troops would be moved out of Europe in less than 12 months."

He said with each man must go six tons of supplies, and an additional ton a month per man for maintenance. Equipment that has been used in Europe must be reclaimed and made serviceable. It must be supplemented by production, and all of it must be shipped over supplies three times as long as those to Europe alone.

He said that finding ships for transportation was not the only difficulty but that new harbor and base, roads and power systems, must be carved out of "practically nothing" in the Pacific to handle this vast flow of men and supplies.

BRITAIN LENDS SHIPS

"Great as these problems of re-deployment are, we are not losing sight of the human aspect in shifting men from one side of the world to the other," he continued.

"Wherever it can be done without slowing down the pace of our projected operations in the Pacific, we are deploying our soldiers by way of the United States so that they may have a chance to visit their homes and loved ones before they go on to tackle the Japanese."

Everything possible will be done to speed up the return of troops to this country, Mr. Truman declared. Those who are to remain on active duty will be sent to their homes promptly at government expense for a 30-day furlough.

plus travel time, for rest and recuperation.

The furlough period at home, said the President, will be classed as temporary duty and the soldier will draw full pay.

He said 316 cargo ships were being converted to help get soldiers out of Europe faster and that the British are lending us their three largest liners, the Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mary and the Aquatania, for this purpose.

TELLS JAP POWER

The Army, he continued, will be reduced from 8,300,000 to 6,900,000 men. By maintaining the Army Selective Service calls at a higher level than requirements for actual replacements, "it will be possible to restore to their homes during the next year a total of two million officers and men," he added.

He disclosed that the Japanese have more than 4,000,000 under arms—a force larger than the Germans were ever able to put up on the Western Front.

In addition, he said, the Japanese have several million men of military age who have not yet been called to the colors.

"We have not come up against the main strength of this Japanese military force," he said. "If it were not for the over-extended agency established by our air and fleet units, we should have to send more men to the Pacific than we now intend."

The war against Japan "will require a high percentage of our resources" and that munitions production will run at an annual rate of $4,000,000,000, almost equal to the 1943 rate, Mr. Truman disclosed.

The President stated that the Navy program would continue on even keel. While they have been sharp reductions in the program for the Army air force and cuts are being made in supplies for the ground troops, there must be increased production in many other types of fighting equipment, he warned.

FOOD STILL SHORT

He emphasized that many shortages would remain, especially food. Others include clothing, petroleum products, lumber, chemicals, leather, and textiles.

Mr. Truman said there cannot be even a partial naval demobilization until Japan is defeated and he called upon civilian laborers in shipyards to stay on their jobs.

His fleet units have suffered considerable damage from Japanese suicide attacks and these ships must be repaired quickly and put back into service, he explained.

"Civilian workers are needed now in ever increasing numbers," he said. "I know that the patriotic workers of the nation will rally to the aid of the Navy in the emergency as they have in the past emergencies."

Gen. Ike to See Monty And Zhukov in Berlin

WHY SOCK THE POOR?

THE WORST proposal and undoubtedly the most vicious sock at the small wage earner to come out of the Massachusetts Legislature in ten years is the bill calling for an increase in the State income tax from 1½ to 2½ per cent.

To get more easily collected money for boondoggling, the proponents of this myopic scheme seem quite willing to drive industry and wealth from the Commonwealth and thus pave the way for another depression in which the returning war veterans are certain to be among the chief sufferers.

In operation, the suggested tax will be a veritable two-edged sword.

It will dig deeply into the average salary, already depleted by the Federal pay-as-you-go levy.

And it will discourage industrial expansion and consequently jeopardize the salary itself.

Almost as bad is the current Legislative attempt to impose a 10 per cent State tax on amusement admissions, which the Federal Government is also tapping greedily.

In this era of soaring prices and stationary wages, thousands of people, including the inadequately compensated war veterans, find it increasingly difficult to go to motion pictures, baseball games and other beneficial recreational events.

If they have to pay 10 per cent MORE to keep the politicians in spending money, these citizens of limited financial means might just as well say good-bye to the theater and most of their other pleasures.

SETTLE IT NOW

THE THREATENED strike of 1800 Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway employees should be averted at once by PEACEFUL ARBITRATION.

This important industrial area on which the whole country depends for weapons and equipment essential to victory in the war against Japan must be spared the needless blow of disrupted transportation.

It is the patriotic duty of all the interested parties to realize how much is at stake and to conduct themselves accordingly.

Eventually, even if a strike occurs and more than a half-million commuters and defense workers are harmfully affected, the issues in dispute will be settled.

The time to do that is before any person suffers and before precious wartime work hours that can never be regained are lost.

WORD OF PRAISE

WE ARE proud of the American's successful effort to obtain justice for Pvt. Joseph McGee, the young Worcester soldier who was court-martialed and imprisoned for slapping nine arrogant Nazi captives.

Our pride is shared by Congressman John W. McCormack of Boston, majority leader in the House of Representatives, who has written us the following letter:

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 30, 1945.
MANAGING EDITOR,
Boston Evening American:

Just a few lines to let you know I received your telegram, which I appreciate very much. A good job was done for Private McGee, and the Boston American is to be congratulated. I am glad I was able to play my part therein.

With kind regards I am (also to Austen Lake)

Sincerely yours,
JOHN W. MCCORMACK.

FEMININE contemporary says women are the best writers of mystery stories. Wouldn't be very difficult to dispute that claim. Good male mystery writers outnumber females about 10 to 1. But don't get me wrong. I believe in giving credit where credit is due. There are eight things women can do better than men, but writing mystery stories is not one of them.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS:
Q—Have you another reader named Erin? A—Know a couple of girls named Erin but can't say they are readers of mine. I refer to Erin O'Brien Moore, the actress, and Erin Hennessey, mascot of the WAVES of the 11th Naval District.

Q—Suppose a young woman is trying to get a man to the point of proposing. Isn't it effective to stop in front of a furniture store when out walking and ask his opinion on house furnishings? Is this on your list of 87 ways to get a husband? A—Our Mules & Men experts say what you suggest is too corny and obvious. No smart man would fall for it. They suggest way No. 34 on their list. This calls for taking the matrimonial prospect with you to visit a happy married couple having a cozy cottage and a cute baby. Add a home-cooked dinner to this and it may put the man in a proposing mood.

PASSING BY: Sherman Billingsley of the Stork Club. He is not from Enid, Okla., as I thought, but from a place named Anadarko. I forget whether he said it was in Oklahoma or Arkansas. Mr. Billingsley was recently elected to a fourth term as president of the Midtown Manhattan Bow Tie Club. He thinks the blue and white polka dot tie is best. After that the red and white polka dot. . . Russ Bothie. Band leader. Leads a dance band at night and works in a war plant by day. His dance band hours are from 8 p. m. to 2 a. m. His war plant hours are 5 a. m. to noon.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: A soldier who had been on Leyte said of the banzai charge of the Japs: "They make the weirdest sound as they rush at you screaming. It sounds like ladies' day at Ebbets Field." . . . Sgt. Haggerty of the Bronx, who is now in the Philippines, says there is nothing to that statement about having "no luck at all" if you marry on Saturday. "I was married on Saturday," says the sergeant, "and have been married 10 wonderful years."

SPINSTERS: An unmarried woman between 30 and 35 has one chance in nine of getting a husband. That is to say, she is a 9 to 1 shot in the husband hunters' handicap. A woman 40 to 45 is a 65 to 1 shot. All spinsters over 45 are 100 to 1 shots. So states a statistician. I think the old boy is off the beam. If I were making book on husband hunters I wouldn't base odds on ages but on individual appearance and personality. I know an unmarried woman of 40 who is such a good-looking I wouldn't give her even money she wouldn't be married in two weeks.

ASIDES: A soft drink that costs 5 cents a bottle retail in stores and at soda fountains costs 75 cents in a Manhattan night spot. . . In Palm Springs, Cal., I have a reader named Annie Laurie Wallace. I think she's Scotch. Anyway, she is the first person named Annie Laurie I have known. My grandfather, one of the original members of the New York City Association of Bathub Singers, sang "Annie Laurie" while taking his morning bath. He also sang "Throw Him Down, McCloskey," "Sweet Katie Connor," "Oh, Uncle John," "Isn't It Nice on Broadway," and "Is That the Mr. Reilly That Owns the Hotel?"

LOVES LIBERTY: "Am 21. I want to enjoy my liberty for five years more," says a member of the Marine Corps Women's Reserve. This young woman also says she has been trying to start a "Don't Want to Get Married Club" but isn't having much success. "All the woman marines are anxious to get married as soon as possible," she states. "That's why some of them joined the Marines. They figured it was a good opportunity to meet a lot of men."

STOGIE DEPARTMENT: My claim was Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia made the first plea for a day honoring mothers. Six hundred and eight members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles of El Centro, Cal., offered to wager 608 stogies I was wrong. They claim Frank E. Hering of the Eagles made the first plea for Mothers' Day on Feb. 7, 1904, in Indianapolis. It is beginning to look as if they may be right. Boy, what a beating I am taking on that one. Think of being stuck for 608 stogies. It's terrible. I guess I'll stop writing for a little while and go into the corner and have a good cry.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, June 1—As people usually do who have just won a bitter war, we are acting rather silly about the Germans and giving the Russians a great advantage, free.

All we hear on our side of the line is that the German people are inherently and racially bad, which is pure Hitlerism for you, denying our own old and cherished principle of individual guilt, and that for our own safety we should reduce our Germans to the land. By our Germans I mean those in our jurisdiction.

But has anybody heard any such talk from the Russians? On the contrary, right up to the fall of Berlin, the Russians were assuring the Germans that it was not their purpose to obliterate them or even to decimate them promiscuously and nothing was said about any Russian intention to destroy their heavy industries in the Russian zone of occupation.

Their plan thus seems to be to recognize and confer positions on those surviving Germans who were Communists before Hitler finally achieved full power, wherein, incidentally, those Communists greatly assisted him, excepting, however, those ex-Communists who became conspicuously bad personal Nazis.

IT MAY BE assumed, of course, that the Russians will kill many of their captives, civilians as well as service people, and women as well as men, and that they will transport masses of them as slaves to Poland and Russia to build better cities and dams, roads and other great public works.

Meanwhile, in our part of Germany the destruction has been much greater and we talk about plowing under the ruins, so to speak, and making it impossible for them ever to manufacture anything more formidable than harmonicas, cuckoo clocks and musical bird-cages.

Does anybody believe that the Russians will destroy any factories that are capable of manufacturing anything that Russia needs for her own uses both in Russia and in the countries which it is her purpose to dominate by persuasion, if possible, but anyway, to dominate? Those factories include some of the greatest armament works in the world.

It is impossible to overlook one fact in this ferocious talk from our side. That is that most of it and the most blood-thirsty proposals come from men in the United States who comfortably sat out the war here and made a lot of money on the air and in print, although there isn't a writer among them who could get by on any rewrite desk, calling Hitler and Himmler dirty names.

ONE THAT I have in mind is a refugee from Germany who certainly had the strongest personal reasons to declare himself in for a personal piece of the fight, even if he had to be content to ship as a messman on a cargo vessel. I can understand why the Germans made a refugee of him all right.

Still, he is on the air and all over the place, shooting off his face and lecturing us on our duty and our democracy and hollering for the massacre of all German officers except the company officers and so many others that the actual physical work of butchering so many people would destroy every decent instinct in all concerned.

Another of our brave conversational commandos is William Gailmore, which is not his real name, who was only 29 when the war broke out and is only 34 now and weighs about 200 pounds.

He is allowed to lecture to shell-shock patients who got that way from personal experience with high explosives in action and tell them how he fought his way back to health so far that nowadays he can pass a strange car at the curb and not even monkey with the ignition.

But he isn't the kind of man the Army wants for personal participation in the war against aggressors enough to come and get him.

I DON'T KNOW whether or not you would call this a preachment for a soft peace with Germany, but I don't much care what anybody calls it. I do know, however, that if you accept this propaganda that as of a certain date all Germans became bad Germans you are swallowing whole the most abominable article of Hitlerism. I think we ought to be a little more discriminating on our course with our share of the fighting men. I see no reason to discriminate between the Germans and the Italian people, who were bad Fascists only because they were inefficient at it and would have been the most overbearing tyrants on earth if they had won.

HOLLYWOOD, June 1—If I didn't know that Joan Crawford was over 30, I would have sworn she was in her early twenties when she stopped at my table at Romanoff's the other evening. She was stunning and looked as smart as any woman in the crowded cafe.

Joan has been a different girl since she changed her exaggerated make-up, and since her marriage to Phil Terry.

Now she is talking to Hal Wallis about "Perfect Marriage," the Miriam Hopkins play, and she's to give him her answer soon. Hal wants to team her with Dennis O'Keefe as the husband. The play, by Samuel Raphaelson, was not good, but Miriam and Victor Jory were excellent. However, Hal has some ideas and the play will have a complete rewriting job to brighten its corners.

BILL GOODWIN is a radio announcer by trade and a successful one. He was on the Burns and Allen show and now he's with Frank Sinatra and the girls go for his voice as well as his looks. Believe me, this wasn't lost on Paramount when they gave him the "Sherman Billingsley" role in "Stork Club" and he's done so well as an actor that he stays on for the heavy in "Each to His Own." Bill will be in good company for his teammates as Olivia de Havilland and John Lund—the latter is the actor who created such a sensation in "The Hasty Heart" on Broadway. Olivia is still a patient in a Boston hospital, being treated for tropical fever.

LEO McCAREY, who, more than anyone I know, can take just a thought and build a fine screen story, has an idea all ready for his next picture and this one is more than a mere thought. He is doing research on the life of Christy Mathewson, beloved baseball player, and he hopes to produce the dramatic life story of Christy, whose name is known to all Americans; in fact, Christy is known abroad as well—about the only American pitcher to have admirers overseas. His only son lost a leg in the war. The boy trained with Marty Arrouge, Norma Shearer's husband, and I met his wife when she stayed here with Norma.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: An amusing home front war story is told about Col. Anatole Litvak and Maj. William Wyler. Both men get terrific salaries when working at their studios, but not so much when they are working for Uncle Sam. They both love to play gin rummy and they have been playing for the same stakes—but with this difference: they put all the losses on the cuff, saying they will wait until after the war to pay. I asked Billy if it were true. He said: "Just part of it." But didn't tell me which part. He saw Ben Lyon in Italy and said Ben

EVER SINCE the beginning of the war, Mrs. Robert Donat and her son have been living quietly in Hollywood. Now that hostilities have ceased they are getting ready to return to London. Their young son, age 10, is a student at Ojai Valley School and he has inherited some of his famous father's acting ability. They tell me he was out of this world as "Peter Pan." George Glass' young son goes to this school also, and he was one among the kids who heeled loud and long that when they put on "Peter Pan" Paramount charged them $125. What about it, Paramount? That's pretty steep for kids.

We told all the Broadway producers that he would rather buy books or have his own writers prepare stories and not pay such outrageous prices!"

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: The very pretty pul with Leslie Fenton at Clio's was Mary Farnsworth. I read that she had just received word that her husband, a ray Mc Owen Ward, had just received his promotion. She hopes to be down at the Clio Saturday to wait for him and daughter who got home after a year in New York. Valdemar has been looking at the Arleen Judge $500,000 mansion and may buy it. I was to intend to live there these two weeks? The George Lombard Michaelis remains in London. They were dining at Sunset House recently. I all else but themselves. I believe her boy friend Billy Specter, will find themselves in competition with each other in the Eastern cities. Belita will be in a road show built around her by Mungom, and Specter will be on tour with the "Ice-Capades."

her Dalling, John Dill, trading sweet nothings at the 1-2-3.

ALL AROUND TOWN: Peggy Ellis, who's waiting for a divorce from bandleader Jerry Wald, is consoling herself with wealthy Jerry Anderson of Chicago . . . There'll be shoes from England on the shelves of N. Y. stores before the end of the year. One British firm is sending a Fifth ave. shop 50,000 pairs . . . Singer Larry Douglas, groaning with pain at a corner table in El Boraccho, summarized his first day at the race track with tears in his eyes. "As far as my horses are concerned," he said, "winning is still illegal" . . . Phil Silvers and Frank Sinatra will do "cleaned-up" burlesque skits in the overseas act—skits Silvers worked in when he co-headlined with strippers.

TIMES SQUARE NOTES: Mae West has gone back to the Coast, accompanied by her actor beau, Jerry Lucas. Boston After Dark AMERICA'S FAMOUS jeeps are on sale, but the Bureau of Surplus Property is making no effort to broadcast the fact . . . (And please don't write to this department for information about the routine involved in buying one of the famous weapons-on-wheels) . . . Sales have been made already at an average price of $400 per jeep—all used jeeps, of course.

THE GOVERNMENT is aware of the chief faults of the jeep, and something may—or should—be done about warning purchasers that the little road-bugs are "cranky" or "tender" (as you'd say in the Navy) . . . In fact, the vehicular genius jeep tips over quite easily perhaps too easily for ordinary use on macadamized roads . . . Their plastic steering wheels also lack the proper "play" . . . The steering wheels break too easily, and are not readily repaired. (So the GIs say.)

TO SET THE record straight for Cape-bound vacationers: It is the Cooanessett Club that the Army has taken over, and not the famous nearby Cooanessett Inn, which remains in the possession of its proprietor, Mrs. Edna Harris . . . Another late Spring note is that Jack Larkin's noted Red Coach Grill in Wayland, closed for two seasons, has re-opened on a six-days-a-week policy. (No service on Mondays) . . . Bert Harrison, who was Jean's assistant maître d' at The Mayfair, is in charge at Wayland.

IT'S Col. Parker Grey, USAAF, now, Parker was the one-man operator (flier, dispatcher, passenger agent and mailman) of the first airline to fly between Boston, Provincetown and Nantucket . . . A young Brookline tankerman, by the way, a former captain in the air force and the son of a wealthy wool dealer, is said to have the inside track on re-establishing a commercial airline between Boston and Cape Cod points . . . Progress has been made in securing equipment, and the forehanded prospective airline-operator has bought reserve engines in some quantity already.

THE MAYFAIR's new show is highly entertaining, with the perennial and popular Johnny Howard emceeing and singing and whistling in his familiar and informal manner (but with some new gags and materials) . . . Pert and pretty Jane Teeman has come along quickly as a tap dancer and vocalist . . . The local girl (Miss Teeman hails from Greater Boston) would be perfect material for what once was known as a soubrette's role in musical comedy . . . A clever acrobatic team, Cabot and Dresden, manages to mix marvellous strong-arm evolutions into smooth ballroom dance routines, and were not Mr. Howard and Miss Teeman so strongly established as favorites in Boston, the dancers might come close to stealing the show.

THE FROLICS in Revere is open, and Barry Wayne is the name of that singer who probably insures a feeling that he has been seen before by some of the guests (jitterbugs, particularly) . . . Barry was with Spike Jones and His City Slickers and appeared in the fillum, "Bring on the Girls" (Eddie Bracken, Sonny Tufts, Marjorie Reynolds and Veronica Lake).

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Should he find it possible to surrender his lieutenant-colonelcy in the Army's division of Chemical Warfare, Charles MacArthur, the playwright, will try to return to the wars as a newspaperman, which he once was . . . You hear strange speeches in taxicabs, often from the lips of the drivers . . . For instance (on School st., in a cab), "I'd like to see them tear down that City Hall some day and give it to the Parker House for a parking space . . . There's one place—City Hall—that ties up the whole of Boston's traffic."

A COMMON GROUND has been reached, obviously, by Michael Redstone, Boston's night club magnate, and AGVA (the entertainers' union) . . . The Mayfair's Celebrity Night was featured by the appearance of artists from several rival clubs . . . The Music Box stars, Daphne Stauffer, Tanya and Nancy Andrews, were present, and pretty Jean Monte is scheduled for an appearance Sunday night at the Latin Quarter's guest night show . . . Billy Kelly, emcee at the Hotel Essex, and Elise Cooper of the Sature Room were among those present . . . AGVA has been firm, until recently, against non-paid guest appearances for its members.

WASHINGTON, June 1—One of the many new things around the White House is the thoughtfulness about things which an overworked Chief Executive might be expected to forget.

For instance, when a public figure dies, his family, more often than not, are forgotten. They are allowed to slide into obscurity and no one—except their intimate friends—ever seems to think about them any more.

This even goes for the families of the once-biggest men in the land; even of cabinet members.

But not so at the White House. The other day a friend of ours was at 1600 Pennsylvania ave., chatting with Matt Connelly, the President's confidential secretary. Just then, Col. Harold Vaughn, the Presidential military aide, came in and placed a memo on Connelly's desk.

This is all it said: "Has anything been done about Mrs. Knox lately?"

SOME TIME AGO, I wrote about the problems which confront the telephone operators at the Capitol. I pointed out that being a Capitol operator requires a prodigious memory. They have to carry so many bits of information in their heads.

The toughest part of the job, as I pointed out, is avoiding confusion among Congressmen of similar names; particularly, those named Johnson.

I reported there were six Johnsons in the House and two in the Senate—identifying the latter two as Hiram of California and Olin D. of South Carolina. I was quite pleased with the figures I would prove to the customers I can count up to eight. You can imagine my chagrin, then, on receiving this letter from Frank W. Morning of 82 Second st., San Francisco.

"In your recent article you stated that there were two Johnsons, Hiram and Olin D., in the Senate. What's the matter with Ed C. of the good old Centennial State of Colorado? 'Being a native Coloradoan and a personal friend and admirer of Sen. Ed Johnson, I wish to call this oversight to your attention.'"

Mr. Morning, I wish to extend my humble apologies, both to you and the senior Senator from Colorado. No one should forget the redoubtable Edwin Carl Johnson. Certainly no Coloradoan would.

In addition to other things, he was twice the State's Governor.

AS A BOY from the hot pavements, temporarily condemned to a semi-rural existence, I wish to go on record as being unalterably opposed to the whippoorwill. I am absolutely fearless about this, and I don't care what Stalin says.

The whippoorwill reminds me of too many people I know. It keeps saying the same thing over and over. Furthermore, it doesn't even know how to talk its own language.

"It does not say 'whip-poor-will!' 'whip-poor-will!' as popularly reported—and I will challenge any birdlover who insists it does. The silly creature, which could do with some lessons in voice culture, says:

"Whu-ichu-wee! Whu-u-hu-

By George Dixon

Can anyone do anything about this?

I HATE to say this but I am afraid Mr. A. U. Fox, director of the Commerce Department's Office of Surplus Property, is much too blunt.

The forthright fellow, obviously never one to beat about the bush, announced:

"It is the responsibility of the Office of Surplus Property to dispose, in a manner consistent with the intent of Congress as expressed in the Surplus Property Act, of unknown quantities of almost unlimited types of consumer goods in unknown quantities, delivered to us as surplus by owning agencies at unpredictable times in presently unspecified places."

Why couldn't Mr. Fox be just a little vague?

It is called "Ghosts of Berchtesgaden," and the players include practically the entire cast of "The Hitler Gangs."

CAMERON MITCHELL, who is playing one of the heroes in "They Were Expendable," is very anxious to find a house because he loves his mother-in-law. Cameron's faced with an eviction notice and has nothing in prospect but a room in a friend's house for him and his wife. This means his mother-in-law goes back to Canada, and he doesn't want her to. It was she who helped him get his break on Broadway and helped him win her daughter for a wife over strong competition . . . Rogers E. M. Whitaker in his profile on Eddie Condon tells about a musician who was trying to avoid a girl who was in love with him. This musician hid out in a hotel but soon the girl found him and asked, "Would it be okay if I phoned you once in a while?" "Sure," replied the musician, "but if I answer, hang up."

fight sequence. Hodiak was made up to appear as though he had had a run-in with a Gen. Sherman tank. During a lull in the battle, Hodiak walked next door, where Jimmy Durante was rehearsing a number. Durante looked at Hodiak and said, "What have you been doing, John? Where have you been?" "Just appearing in a musical comedy," grinned Hodiak . . . Cara Williams, when she went to court to have her contract approved, told the judge that she was never going to get married, because most divorces are caused by marriages. But don't get me wrong, I love Hollywood.

Q—I applied for hospitalization under the Emergency Infant and Maternity Care program and was accepted. My husband has been reported missing. Am I still entitled to the hospitalization? L. D., Brighton.

A—Yes, once your application has been approved you are entitled to the hospitalization regardless of any change in the soldier's status.

Q—My husband has been in the Army for almost three years. When he went in he was classified for limited service and he thought he would not be sent overseas so he never took any Government insurance. Now he is overseas. Can he apply for the insurance now or is he ineligible for overseas. Can he apply for the insurance now or is he ineligible for it being in so long without it? C. W., Waltham.

A—The soldier now applies for National Service Life Insurance at any time he wishes. He should contact his personnel officer and request that an application be filed on his behalf.

Q—If a soldier carries Government insurance and is killed in action, does his beneficiary receive payment in a larger amount than if he died from an illness? M. D. R., Nashua.

A—No, the amount in which the soldier dies does not make any difference in the amount of insurance paid. The rate of payment is based on the age of the beneficiary at the time of death of the soldier.

Q—My son was reported missing over a year ago and is presumed by the War Dept. to be dead. I have been informed that I will receive National Service Life Insurance of $40.30 a month for the rest of my life. If I die before the full value of the policy is paid to me, will it automatically go to my next of kin? W. A., Back Bay.

A—If your son named a contingent beneficiary, that is another person to receive payment in the event of your death, the insurance proceeds will go to that person instead of your estate within the following order: wife, child, parent, brother or sister of the soldier. If no other beneficiary was named by the soldier, and you are the first to receive full payment due, it would go to the person next in line for payment as listed above.

Q—My husband is overseas and has a War Fund sent to his mother each month. Isn't he obliged to leave "baby" money out to me as co-widow? F. M., Lynn.

A—No, the money designated his mother as co-widow if he so desires.

Q—I receive Family Allowance of $12 per month and three children. I have a small furniture. Can the company attach that so that an amount is withheld from me each month? A. T., So. Boston.

A—No, Family Allowance may not be claimed or attached by any person or agency to collect a bill.

Q—My son was killed in action a year ago. His insurance policy named his wife and me and a brother and sister as beneficiaries. If his wife was to get the whole thing, as she is, what was the use of naming the rest of us? "GOLD STAR MOTHER."

A—Your son apparently designated his wife as principal beneficiary, and named you and his brother and sister as contingent beneficiaries. In the event his wife died before all insurance payments due had been paid, the balance would be paid to you.

State Bond Sales

$95,839,000

Total sales of bonds to individuals in the Bay State have reached $95,839,000 or 40 per cent of the $239,600,000 quota, the Massachusetts War Finance Committee announced today.

E. Bond sales in Greater Boston to date has amounted to $27,769,091, or 33 per cent of the $84,249,000 objective, while all sales to individuals total $51,565,000 or 42.3 per cent of the $121,981,000 quota.

The thrilling "Here's Your Infantry" show makes its final Massachusetts appearance Sunday night at the Morymount Stadium in Quincy. A dramatic Navy film of the war in the Pacific will be shown at the luncheon of the Advertising Club of Boston next Tuesday at Hotel Statler, when Tom Linn of the War Finance Committee will be principal speaker.

Mother Seeks Hero's Personal Effects

Fearing that her dead Marine son's personal effects may have been sent to a wrong address in Greater Boston, Mrs. Miriam Milburn of Chicatawbat st., Dorchester today appealed to the Boston American for assistance in locating the package.

She said her son, S-Sgt. Thomas W. W., was killed at Guam last year and his watch was the only article returned to her. She said search by officials at the Army Effects Bureau in Kansas City, Mo., was fruitless.

German Tells How 2 Other Civilians Beat Yank to Death

AHRWEILER, Germany, June 1 (AP)—A German wheat farmer testified today he saw two of his countrymen beat an American flier to death Aug. 15 after the flier parachuted from a flaming bomber near Trier.

Three Germans are on trial before an American military commission in the first trial of German civilians for a war crime in the Reich.

Accused are one-armed Peter Kohn, 32, a crane operator; Matthias Gierens, 37, railroad worker; and Matthias Krein, 44, blacksmith.

They watched unsteadily as Nicholas Nospes, 74, told of seeing Kohn and Gierens finish off the flier after another German still at large shot the American twice but failed to kill him.

Nospes, a very little man with a Hitlerian mustache as gray as his head, said Kohn beat the flier with a three-foot stick and Gierens attacked with a hammer.

The witness testified he saw about 20 persons gathered around the flier during the beating. By order of local police, he later stripped the body, wrapped it in straw and buried it in an unmarked grave, he said. The body has been exhumed, but so far efforts at identification have failed.

WHITING'S HOMOGENIZED VITAMIN D MILK

ANOTHER accomplishment added to a long and enviable record...Whiting's Homogenized Vitamin D Milk. You've honestly never tasted such rich, creamy flavor in milk before! Homogenization does it...the cream is distributed uniformly, right to the last drop. A grand treat for youngsters and adults alike...and extra nourishing, too, with its added Vitamin D content. As for cooking, thousands of housewives have discovered the marvelous extra richness it gives their favorite dishes. Marjorie Mills, one of whose recipes is featured at the right, insists on it always. Benefit from this better, richer milk...just have it delivered at your door, or ask for it by name at your grocers.

French Toast Slices

Pour into greased shallow baking dish. Prepare French toast, dipping bread slices cut to fit top of baking dish in seasoned egg and milk (1/2 cup milk to 1 egg) and arrange on top of casserole. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees) until mixture is hot and toast topping is well browned.

Macaroni To Rescue

By MARTHA LEE

MANY A SKILLFUL COOK turns to the macaroni family for quick meals because no pre-preparation is involved—no peeling, scraping, cutting or soaking. Instead, the macaroni, spaghetti or noodles are eased into rapidly boiling salted water. The food is ready for its final seasoning in the time required for its cooking.

Macaroni products lend themselves beautifully to double-quantity cookery, too. Twice the amount needed for one meal can be cooked and stored in the cold for setting in an entirely different dress a day or two later. By doing this, pot washing is cut down and fuel is saved.

It isn't always necessary to turn hot water over freshly cooked macaroni or noodles. For dishes where clean cut tools, such as a fork, are the goal, the hot water rinse is advisable. But for casseroles or where the food will have a thickened sauce, there is no need to wash the macaroni at all.

QUICK SPAGHETTI SUPPER DISH

1 pkg. spaghetti
1 tsp. onion salt
Shouting to fry onion

1 can thick tomato soup
Cook spaghetti in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and serve with sauce prepared by frying the onion in shortening until tender but not brown. Add the tomato soup and heat thoroughly. Serve with or without grated cheese on hot spaghetti. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

We always want color and contrast in our menus. And the creamy color of macaroni or spaghetti and the gold of noodles helps give a bold and pleasing difference. It's easy to get a red and creamy scheme, for instance, in hot macaroni salad served with cold cuts; or hot noodle loaf with wedges of ripe tomatoes.

HOT MACARONI SALAD WITH COLD CUTS

1 pkg. macaroni
1/2 to 6 slices bacon
1 medium onion, cut fine
1 tsp. flour
1/2 cup diced celery
1 tsp. minced parsley or green pepper

1 cup vinegar
Salt and pepper to taste
Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until tender. Drain. Cut bacon in small pieces. Fry with onion, celery and green pepper until light brown. Then add flour. Make smooth paste and add vinegar. Then summer over low heat until thick and smooth. Stir constantly. Then add macaroni and serve at once with cold cuts.

NOODLE COTTAGE CHEESE LOAF

1 pkg. egg noodles
1 cup cottage cheese
1/2 to 6 slices bacon, diced
1 small onion, cut fine
1/2 tsp. salt; 1/2 tsp. pepper
1/2 tsp. paprika

Cook noodles in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and combine with cheese, bacon and seasonings. Place in a greased baking dish and bake at 375 deg. F. for 20 to 30 minutes. Serve as main dish on supper or luncheon plate. A tomato or mushroom sauce may be used, if desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

GOLDENROD SPAGHETTI SALAD

1 pkg. elbow spaghetti
1 cup diced celery
3 hard-cooked eggs (cut whites for salad, save yolks for garnish)
2 tomatoes, cut into bits
Salt and pepper to taste
1/2 cup grated cheese (optional)
Mayonnaise
1/2 cup diced cucumber

Cook spaghetti in boiling salted water. Drain. Rinse in cold water and when cool combine with other salad ingredients. Blend with mayonnaise. Garnish with sliced egg yolks and green pepper rings. Makes 8 servings.

'Sarong' Skirt Not Extreme

By BETTINA BEDWELL

I AM GLAD to report that some of the extreme styles of the summer have been very nicely tempered so that the mature woman who won't go to extremes can wear them. One of these is the dress with a draped skirt that most of you know as the "sarong" skirt.

Here is a black sheer crepe from William Bass, and it is charming with its soft waist and skirt draped around over the left hip with a cascade of softly falling drapery down the side-back of the skirt. The waist has a narrow, rectangular neckline filled in with black lace ruffles, and the black belt has a small rhinestone buckle.

Appealing Loveliness in Reach of All

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

WE CAN'T KEEP UP with the hide-and-seek game the sun and weather are pressing us into... one day unseasonably cool, the next day warm... so, for our money we're going to talk about summer beauty as if "June is bustin' out all over."

Maybe it will before long... and when it does... you'll be glad you planned to keep as cool as the proverbial cucumber. One of the nicest and most delightful ways to keep cool and fresh... a habit that should be all-year-round, of course... is keeping yourself free from underarm perspiration and discomfort.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, THURSDAY—Yesterday I wrote about one of the points raised in Secretary of State Stettinius' recent speech, and today I would like to continue with a discussion of the Polish issue.

It is evident that the Yalta agreement, as far as Poland is concerned, became difficult to carry out and the much-to-be desired creation of a new government was not accomplished.

Poland has a right to freedom, but it is evident, too, that Russia, in return for her valiant fighting, has a right to feel that her European doorway is safe. That being the case, the type of government which exists in Poland and the boundaries which are finally agreed upon will be of greater concern to Russia than to any of the other Allies.

ALL THOUGHTFUL PEOPLE agree that Russia, Great Britain and ourselves must co-operate in peace as we have co-operated in war if the world is to have peace. Therefore, I like very much the plain speaking on the part of our Secretary of State, which emphasized for all of us the fact that machinery cannot make peace.

WE MIGHT AS WELL frankly face the fact that in this country there are many people who do not like the British Empire. Sometimes this feeling may be a carryover from old world backgrounds; sometimes it is still our Revolutionary war; sometimes it is a sense of inferiority which makes us insist on our superiority.

OUR FEELING toward Russia, however, is different. She is an unknown quantity. Her strength is not yet measured. The fact that she has done in some 25 years what the rest of Europe has taken several hundred years to do gives a sense of insecurity.

We know their fanaticism in defense of their form of government and of the leaders who have turned medieval conditions into a modern industrial civilization. We often do not understand that such rapid development means uneven development.

With both Great Britain and Russia, however, we must decide that peace is worth the effort we must make in order to understand and like each other.

But, do it the modern way... by means of little antiperspirant and deodorant pads... saturated with a delicately scented fluid that is anathema to such embarrassment and feeling of ill-being. Extra-large in size... these snow-white pads are piled high in a good-sized jar. You lift one off at a time... as you use them... and you'll find they completely deodorize and check perspiration from one to three days.

So easy to handle... they assure daintiness from head to toe and even to your finger tips. No messy cream to get under the fingernails... no liquid to spill... they are practically personified. You can keep a jar in your top desk drawer. You can put a few in a smaller container and carry them in your purse. They can always be with you for perpetual sweet-smelling loveliness.

ACCENT TO CHARM

And, another thing to consider about these ingenious pads is the affinity they have for the skin. They will cause no irritation to the most sensitive dermis. They will cause no allergy... if you are so inclined. A few swishes of the pad under the arms... and there you are... daisy-fresh and sweet... a necessary accent to charm.

These pads are extra large... the largest we've seen... so you can really swish them around where they do the most good. This is a beauty aid no woman can be without. We take it for granted that you use some sort of deodorant... every fastidious girl does... but we highlight these pads because of their economical, practical and non-messing features... as well as their appealing scent for appealing loveliness.

For the name of these saturated pads for charm, phone the Beauty Dept., Liberty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

You Must Make Your Greetings Shine

Greetings can be such shining gifts! Your "How do you do?" "Good morning," or your "Hello!" will give a lovely light when you put into these words a warm-friendliness and wrap them with a bright smile. And how much, how very much, today's world needs these shining gifts of warm-hearted greetings. So often they are the very top-notch of time-friendliness! —MRS. BEECKMAN.

Copyright, 1945, King Features Synd., Inc.

THERE'S nothing like a dip in the deep for cooling freshness... but outside the ocean... the most practical aid to cool freshness for the fastidious look of charming grace and loveliness... is a jar of saturated pads that wash all traces of underarm unpleasantness away... to keep you in line with daintiness. Warner Star Pat Clark is summer beauty at her best... but we working gals must be summer fresh at all times.

Remember how you played house in childhood? A cardboard box became a Back Bay mansion for your dolls!

It's time to play house again and make plans for your home of tomorrow. You perhaps are one of the seven million brides married since the war began. You have dreamed about sterling silver. But a dream it must remain as complete stocks of flatware and hollow-ware will not be available until postwar. Place settings in a few flatware patterns may be obtained. However, there is nothing to prevent your choosing now the silver you will want after the war. Come to our Silver Department. Make your selections and enter your name on our Advance Order List. When silver is available you will enjoy a priority at Shreve's and obtain your selection just that much earlier. There is no obligation if conditions later prevent your purchasing. Best Tomatoes Planted Now

By FOSTER WEISS

(Head Vegetable Gardening Department, Norfolk County Agricultural School, and Director of the Boston Record-American-Sunday Advertiser Garden on the Common.)

Victory gardeners who have been waiting for better weather conditions before planting should now start their gardens without further delay. There is still time to correct the setbacks and prepare for the growing season ahead. Some growers have made the mistake of planting some crops too early. Cutworms are getting in their damaging work, all of which means extra work.

No Garden is complete without tomatoes. In fact, tomatoes are first on the list and if no other vegetable is grown you should at least try to grow some tomatoes. In small gardens, plant 8-10 plants per person while in larger gardens with more space available, twice this number should be grown to supply enough for canned tomatoes and tomato juice.

In small gardens where space is limited, it is practical to stake tomatoes. Planting distances vary according to methods of pruning. Most experienced gardeners feel that plants set 15-18 inches apart in the row with rows three feet apart give best results. Prune plants to a single stem for best results.

While the tomato is a hot weather plant, it also requires a long growing season so to get maximum results we must set them now. Tomatoes will thrive on a wide variety of soils, but they seem to do best on a fertile well-drained sandy loam. Soils should be high in humus to give the crop an even supply of moisture throughout the growing season. Watch for insecticide on pruning next week.

2 Bay State Fliers Scourge to Japs

Taking part in attacks on Jap shipping near Shanghai, two Massachusetts men, Warren William, Ballard st., Saugus, and Michel J. Scully, Cass st., Springfield, have had their planes tacked with the title "Scourge of the Yangtze," according to Associated Press dispatches from Okinawa.

The airmen strafed two large Jap transports and damaged 12 other ships on special voluntary missions along the China coast. Four planes took part in the raids and all returned safely.

Mean Jobs—Do You?

ASK ANY DOUGHBOY. It's the mean jobs—the dirty work of digging the enemy out of every house and rock that finally clinches a victory. At home, too, it's not the easy jobs that count the most. Take fat salvage. The big amounts, like the fat from frying bacon or broiling, are easy. But what about the little bits left over?

FOR EXAMPLE, those little scraps of fat that used to go into the garbage can; those trimmings left on plates at the table? Our country needs them all! Save them every day! Keep them in a bowl in the icebox. Once a week, when your oven's going, melt them down and pour the liquid fat into your salvage can. You'll be astonished how it adds up. And, remember, you get two extra red points and 4 cents for every pound you take to your butcher. So keep saving, until the Japs are licked!

U.S. Navy Produces First Realistic Film of the War

By AUSTEN LAKE

AT LAST WE HAVE IT—an on-the-spot battle film which brings home the full, grisly, unedited truth of war. At last the Navy has produced a real-life movie which portrays the whole savage truth as only our combat troops hitherto knew it. "To the Shores of Iwo Jima," about to be released, should be required watching for every American! Nothing is spared! There is no compromise with delicate feeling. It is a reality at its awful utmost!

To most of us who dwell in the comparatively sheltered backwaters of civil life Hollywood has had a monopoly on the movie versions of warfare. Its actors, well rehearsed, "die" splendidly to music by Tchaikowsky. Its artificial din, its dubbed in clamor of guns, its neatly orchestrated turmoil seems cunningly real. The calm fatalism of the studio-soldier is artistically convincing.

Yet always cinema-skeptics have come away with curious doubts. Do men in battle behave like Brian Donlevy? Are genuine battle conditions, where death is par for the course, look like these workshop props? Do real soldiers, gambling with eternity, display such casual fortitude? Is death in the field a glorious posture?

I assure you death in battle is viciously ugly! Wounds are ghastly! "Iwo Jima" shows it as it is—even to the color and the technical lens-art. It is more than a mere diary of action. It is raw, stark-naked, authentic, unstaged reality of human behavior under the most tortured conditions known to the human race, and "shot" by U. S. Marine, Navy and Coast Guard cameramen who carried pistols on their hips and grenades in their belt loops—men who were killed, wounded and missing at their work. Fifteen were wounded. One is missing—all while churning away at their camera cranks.

This is not to satisfy morbid curiosity! It is a MESSAGE—an obligation!

Look At Their Faces!

THE TIME WAS THE 23 DAYS following Feb. 19, 1945. The locus was the oyster shaped island four flying hours from Tokyo. The opening scenes show our battle wagons blasting broadsides in unsynchronized succession of flashes and roars staggering to the senses—spitting masses of steel hate into the rocky, volcanic shore of Iwo and flowering into rosy, incandescent flickers and smudges of oily smoke.

Now bayonet-bearing Marines move forward, splashing through the shallow surf, crouching tensely beneath the arched trajectory of our offshore shells, slithering into delicacies and shell-pits that pock the sandy soil. Look at these men's faces, unaware they are being photographed. Look at their eyes as they gaze fixedly toward unseen horizons. Study their hands as they grip their rifles or grovel up a sandbank, fingers rigid, knuckles white. One chews a gum-cud with monotonous rhythm. One adjusts his chin strap and rubs a snuffling nose. One licks his nervous lips. Others point hard, expressionless faces with eyes narrowed to pinpoints of white light. Their features are as sculptured in stone.

Some fall with the limp motion of collapsing flour sacks, lying grotesquely with arms angled awkwardly, sand seeping over their forever still bodies. Studious records the deep-rich claret tone of blood, welting from wounds like horribly hungry mouths. Do not cringe from reality, Americans! These are YOUR wounds and YOUR blood! Look at them squarely as a duty and let awful reality seep into your souls!

Men Going Forever Forward!

LOOK AT THEIR FACES, I say again! Those of the dead are rigid masks, their features frozen! These were kids who carried your groceries, or delivered your telegrams, or brought your papers or passed with their school books in a strap. Other Marines, in passing, look down with grim curiosity, eyes dilated and jaws jutting—men anesthetized by nerve-paralyzing emotion, but men forever GOING FORWARD! "Many didn't make it," drones the commentator in the voice of a tired priest reciting his litany!

Here is a fragmentary diary of naked souls. The mortarman who drops his shell into the tilted muzzle, cringing with one hand over an ear at each successive blast. Shapeless dungeoned marines stealthily creeping over dunes toward the open mouth of caves to project gusts from flame-throwers as from the nozzle of a garden hose—devouring streams of moulten fire. Medics carrying bodies hammock fashion in canvas sheets, laying them down and sprawling in shallow pits at the screech of enemy shells which burst and vibrate the camera film distortingly. Men died to take these pictures!

The neatly stacked helmets—4000 of them, belonging to soldiers who will need them no more. Men reaching eagerly to elevate the flag pole—OUR flag! Silhouettes of tanks as they lumber past with flickering, flash-dance of guns, attacking Jap fortified positions. Aerial bombs falling like black beads from low-flying bombers and splashing in garnet gusts. And the havoc that follows the backwash of battle—hulks of flaming tanks, blasted trucks, twisted artillery, huddled human shapes, skeletons of burned planes, and landing boats and gear awash in the restless surf. Look at it and know why these men demand a "TOTAL PEACE," a lasting peace, in terms of uncompromising, hard justice without soft sentiment or insipid social theory.

For here is an authentic audit and a plain, unadorned chronicle of DETERMINED men—chiefly the simple U. S. soldier! From it one gathers, for the first time, the stern, unyielding spirit and the unquenchable forces which motivate our boys in one of the Homeric battles of the ages, men who died anonymously that our way of life might survive. Look hard and lovingly on this ugly-beautiful record and then resolve that they shall not have died in vain. Let us make the German and Jap enemy feel the hardness of an enduring peace as they have felt the hardness of these men's steel. They fought for KEEPS! Let's make that sort of peace!

Cronin Hopes Ferriss Loses 1st Game on Road

By HUCK FINNEGAN

Prince De Rohan once sang: "If I can't get the sweetie I want, I pity the sweetie I get!" Pity, instead, the ball player who boots a game for Dave Ferriss.

Johnny Lazor

It looked as if Jack Tobin kicked Ferriss into his first loss when Hayes' ground ball went through his (Tobin's) legs in the fourth inning of Thursday's game. (Final: Sox 6, Cleveland 2). MacKiewicz scored on the play, and the 1936 paid admissions expressed resentment.

It looked for a surety as if the game were gone when right fielder Johnny Lazor weaved and bobbed under Red Embree's fly in the fifth, finally muffing it, to give the Indians a 2-0 lead. It was the first time Ferriss had been behind in his seven straight victories, and the fans yelled. (Score: Cleveland 2, Sox 0.)

Tobin was anathema. Lazor more so. "We want Fox," chanted the over-coated gathering. (Fox's arm was so swollen from being hit by a Gromek Memorial Day pitch, he couldn't throw). It was Lazor's first game in right field and what with the wind and sun (no rain in his hair) he had to ask Cleveland's half-blinded O'Dea where right field was.

Did the fans care? Not one little. "Booo-oo—oo" was his lot when he came to bat, just as it was when Steiner muffed the Memorial Day fly. But Lazor came through with a double that climaxed the five-run fifth, and all was well.

Everything's dandy when you win. Metkovich, for example, has been the particular guest of Fenway patrons all season. He hasn't hit a lick, but when he came through with the two-run homer that sent Ferriss on his way to victory, you'd think he was Tris Speaker and Harry Hooper combined.

That is the whim of fandom. Honestly, the guy who kicks away Ferriss' first game probably will be lynched right in Fenway Park. The fans are that mad about him.

The kid's got to lose some time, and it might as well be now as ever. But as Cronin said after seeing the fans' reaction: "I hope it happens on the road."

Hold that Tiger! Detroit's in town today, and Dizzy Trout, despite physical handicaps, was expected to take the mound against Emmett O'Neill . . . Oscar Judd has been sold to the Phillies, and nobody in the Red Sox dressing room shed a tear anymore than they did when Cecil was sent to Louisville. Judd is capable of winning 20 games a season, might be a wow under different conditions. Bill McKechie wanted him in '41 . . . The roster is 25, and the ball players want to know why Nick Polly was sent away without a trial. He could hit, and the Sox need hitting . . . Let me check up on Christopher, too . . . Know where Ferriss went last night? To the circus with Mike Ryba. And all Ryba was talking about today was the way Ferriss spent his dough on feeding peanuts to the elephants . . . Red Embree was called back to Glendora, Cal., after the game for induction . . . Ferriss has allowed five runs in seven games, only 36 hits.

Amputees Give Pete Gray New Idea on Pivot Throw

WASHINGTON, June 1 (INS)—Pete Gray, one-armed outfielder of the Browns, showed amputees at Walter Reed Hospital here how he plays the game so well and came away with a new fielding tip.

The amputees gave it to Gray after they had watched him demonstrate how he caught short fly balls in his loosely-held glove, which he quickly dropped, then rolled the ball across his chest, finally to grasp it for the throw.

"That's all right on ordinary flies, but how about the tough ones hit to your backhand side?" the amputees asked. They said they were not satisfied with the way he set himself to throw. They suggested Gray take a full basketball pivot and then throw, contending that it would give him more power.

Gray tried it a few times and told his audience that he would work on it for use in future games. Luke Sewell, Browns' manager, accompanied Gray to the hospital, bawling, tossing short flies to Pete during the demonstration. He lauded Gray's ability as a ball player, despite his handicap, and said that the secret of his success was in his footwork.

Indians' O'Dea Regains Sight

Paul O'Dea, Cleveland outfielder, was reported in good condition today following an unusual episode when he temporarily lost the sight of his one good eye during the Red Sox-Indians game at Fenway yesterday. O'Dea left town with the Indians headed for New York.

O'Dea was struck on the right eye by a batted ball during spring training five years ago and lost the sight of that eye. His left eye, Cleveland aides revealed, occasionally becomes affected so that he is obliged to use special medicine to clear up the trouble.

He was led from the field yesterday in the sixth inning after he called to teammates for aid, and play was halted.

Tulsa, Indiana to Meet on Gridiron

TULSA, Okla., June 1 (AP)—Coach Henry Frnka's University of Tulsa football team will play the Indiana Hoosiers on Oct. 27, it was announced last night by Z. G. Clevenger, Indiana director of athletics.

Coach Frnka said that he thought the game might be the beginning of a home-and-home series.

Ferriss Gives Sox Fire That Wins Ball Games

By JACK CONWAY

WHEN DAVE FERRISS pitches for the Red Sox the club rises to greater heights than it does for any of its other mousé men. This was evident again yesterday when Ferriss won his seventh straight game for the Sox by a score of 6 to 2. The fact the Indians secured a two-run lead did not worry Ferriss or the Sox in the least. The men of Cronin went out and scored five rounds in the fifth session, and added another run later.

Great pitchers like Ferriss inspire their teammates to greater efforts. Once Dave steps into the box, the club becomes more confident. It feels it cannot be beaten and in seven games with Ferriss doing the flinging this has proved true.

Joe Cronin

Met kovich's home run with one on was the smash of the fifth inning. The blow just reached the right field stands. O'Dea made a desperate effort to get his hands on the ball, but failed. Later in the game O'Dea was the victim of an unfortunate accident. Dust blown across the field, got into one of his eyes, and the club trainer was unable to remove the dust. As the vision of O'Dea's other eye is not very good, it was necessary to lead the outfielder off the field.

It is seldom that ball clubs have played under more severe wind conditions. The outfielders in particular had trouble judging fly balls. The second Cleveland run resulted when Lazor misjudged a fly ball in right field. When it became apparent that the wind and the strong sun in right field were too much for Lazor, Joe Cronin wisely placed McBride in that difficult spot.

FERRISS hitting once more proved a factor in the game. He came through with two hits, one of which was a double. It is a pleasant relief to have a Red Sox pitcher who can hit as well as Ferriss.

This is one of the reasons why Bob Johnson has been able to help Ferriss win so many of his games. Dave has frequently been on base when Johnson has come to bat and the latter has come through with a winning wallop.

The fact the Red Sox believe in Ferriss is why they do not when he pitches. The same is true in all team sports.

Players who can inspire confidence in their teammates do not always have to be 100 per cent perfect to win. Their club often plays over its head when they are in a jam.

Ferriss combines pitching and batting ability with the touch that causes every Red Sox player to do his best. He has been responsible for adding a new fire to the Sox and which will help the club with many games before the season closes.

THE PAID attendance was only 4306, while there were less than 800 service men at the game. If Joe Cronin had wished to pitch Ferriss on the home day, the Sox attendance would have topped 30,000 instead of being just under 20,000. Cronin used good judgment as far as Ferriss' future is concerned. The young pitcher had worked on Sunday, and he required more time of rest to be at his best.

With wise handling, Ferriss will have many years of baseball usefulness with the Sox.

It looks as if Dave is almost certain to win 20 games for the Sox this season. He may even make it 25. Let us hope so.

Here's Red Story About Mort Cooper

By BILL RIMES

CHICAGO, Ill., June 1.—Mort Cooper, who shut out the Reds last Sunday in Cincinnati for the first Braves' victory in the West, will be on the hill top this afternoon at Wrigley Field, in the first of a four-game series with Charlie Grimm's Cubs.

Until he was purchased by the Braves from the Cards for an undisclosed sum of money and "Red" Barrett, Cooper didn't know whether he was going or coming. During the off season, he received so many invitations to report at Jefferson Barracks, an induction center on the outskirts of St. Louis, that he figured the Army had him. So, he sold his home in the Mount City for a profit of $3100.

Then, after he and his brother Walker had signed to play with the Cardinals for $12,500, they learned that "Slats" Marion was receiving $13,500. So, they demanded $15,000, thereby creating an impasse.

They spent more time with their attorney than they did on the ball field. Finally, their case went to the commissioner's office but before a decision was rendered, Walker was in the service and Mort was with the Braves.

Throughout the major leagues, players regard Cooper, as a prima donna, and all types of so and soes. Possibly, it was his ability to cool off batters that gained him that reputation. Pitching is a business with Cooper. So, in a pinch, probably, a few pitches have gotten away from him and loosened up sluggers. But in Cooper's book, that's baseball.

Cooper isn't a mixer. And, for that reason, when he joined the Braves, he asked Duffy Lewis to allow him to room alone until he became acquainted. Because of the crowded conditions in Pittsburgh, Cooper roomed with Al Jaffery but he was alone in Cincinnati and lived out in St. Louis. Now, he's by himself again.

After he had let the Reds down with four hits and had slept for 18 out of the next 24 hours, Mort Cooper asked Manager Bob Coleman to give him a four-day lay off.

"I haven't done much pitching this spring, Bob," confessed Cooper last Monday before the night game in Cincinnati, "so, if it is all right with you I'd like to wait until the opening game in Chicago before I work again. After that I will be ready to take my regular turns."

Hub Lad Makes Nine Jeffra Battles Garcia at Arena With Only One Hand

By MIKE GILLOOLY

The entire nation has been rooting for Pete Gray, one-armed outfielder with the St. Louis Browns, to make good in the big leagues. His fluctuating batting average has been a personal score sheet for thousands of veterans in hospitals throughout the country who are pulling for their most highly-publicized representative in sports to make the grade.

Pete Gray is the biggest cheering section the sports world could possibly offer but it's no more enthusiastic—nor sincere—than the backing that Joe Reynolds has been getting in his gallant fight at Roxbury Memorial High School.

Reynolds, a graduate of St. Margaret's School in Dorchester, is the "Pete Gray" of the Boston schoolboys. Like the big leaguer, Reynolds has the use of only one arm, his right. (Gray is left-handed. As a youngster, he was the victim of infantile paralysis—a disease that robbed him of the use of his left arm. But such a handicap couldn't stop the youngster from starting an active participation in sports.

Reynolds had to learn the hard way. He had to battle every inch of the way to reach the top in his particular class but he made it for the last game of the season, taking his place in the outfield for the varsity team against Boston College High School yesterday. And now that he's had a taste of the fastest high school company, he'll be very tough to get out of the lineup next season.

Joe got his big break this season when the front office of the physical education department started junior varsity baseball. He reported to Coach John Keane and showed so much talent that he started the season in left field and he's been out there in every game since. In the first five times at bat, he belted out five singles with his one hand so that he graduated to the varsity with a .400 average.

As a matter of fact, his hitting (all singles) was so impressive that he was used in the clean-up berth. That was the biggest compliment that Coach Keane could pay him—that and the recommendation that Reynolds join Coach Tom Campbell's first stringers.

Reynolds was the Red Sox most faithful fan when the Browns were in town recently. He wanted to study further the tricks that Pete Gray used in the field and at bat. He uses the same method as Gray in fielding a ball—catching the ball in his gloved hand, flipping the glove in the air, doffing his glove, catching the ball again and lining it back to the infield. He's not as slick as Pete but he loses little time in his returns.

And baseball isn't Reynolds' only sport. He failed to make the football squad, but he already has three letters in hockey and he'll be captain of the ice group when the team reports for practice this winter. Reynolds will stick to a defense job this summer until school resumes in the fall.

Pete Gray is setting a fine example in the big leagues. Joe Reynolds is tops in courage in schoolboy ranks.

Comellas Sent Back to Coast

CHICAGO, June 1 (AP)—Jorge Comellas, whom the Chicago Cubs had hopes of becoming a winner in the major leagues on the strength of his 18 wins in the Coast League last season, is on his way back to Los Angeles minus a victory in the big time.

The Cubs returned him to the Los Angeles farm club on option. His record was two defeats and no wins. He was used chiefly as a relief hurler, starting one game.

Jeffra retired from ring competition two years ago to become a jockey after he had held the world's bantam and featherweight championships. He beat Sixto Escobar for the 118-pound crown and then decisioned Joey Archibald for the title that Bartolo now holds. Since returning to the fights, Jeffra has beaten Leroy Jackson and fought a draw with Phil Terranova.

A 10-round semi-final will be a return bout between the promising Tommy Moore, South Boston, and Tommy Murray, Montreal. Moore won a split decision in their last bout.

Two sixes and a four will complete the card.

SHORT CUT TO FAST CUTTING

WAR has meant that industry must work with harder, tougher metals . . . within smaller limits . . . and do it a whole lot faster than ever before.

This challenge has been met by the machine builders with lathes, drills, planers, other machines of a speed and ruggedness hardly dreamed before.

In doing so, they set up a problem for the makers of cutting oils . . . one measured by the very degree of perfection achieved in machine design. It's the cutting oils that keep one metal from fusing with another in high-speed work.

That's why the petroleum cutting oils developed by Atlantic research are vital in war work. Keeping up with the development of the great new machines, they're a short cut to fast metal-cutting.

This is one more example of the varied research that goes on continuously at Atlantic. Helping win the war now, it means better petroleum products of all kinds in peacetime tomorrow.
